

Partnerships

We are blessed to have partnered with the LMU PLACE Corps program to help bring qualified teachers to our school. Serra teachers are also getting Masters and credentials through the two-year CAST program.

For over seven years, Serra has offered dual college-credit courses taught by El Camino professors right here on our own campus. Students can take courses such as Modern US History, Ethnic Literature, Economics and more in a college classroom environment.

Students at Serra hold a record number of blood drives every year, which helps to save lives in the surrounding hospitals in the South Bay.

Each year the CEF raises hundreds of thousands of dollars for our families so that they afford a Catholic education at Serra. Our students give back by participating in CEF sponsored events and fundraisers.

The Serra Math Department uses Accelerated Math to improve student performance. It has shown to help our teachers make data-driven decisions on curriculum, pacing and instruction.

Serra students participate in the annual Lions Club Speech Contest, which has been a tradition at the school for over five years. Winners receive scholarships to be used for college tuition.

Serra ambassadors help organize and run TACSC events that teach leadership to middle school students around Los Angeles.

The Serra Art Department has recently teamed up with Art Trek to bring visual, literary and performing arts to the community.

Our school joined the Model United Nations program in 2013, and has already participated in local competitions. Next year we will be expanding the course to include trips to New York and Washington, D.C.
